Comments
As an economics major, this is definitely the best course I've taken in the concentration so far. I learned so much about development economics and the reading materials were great– there was so much variety in the readings that class was never dull. This is the course I've learned from the most in my Harvard career thus far, and Ronak is an excellent TF who is incredibly passionate about the topic, and genuinely encourages her students to learn from each other. While the class definitely requires work, it is the most rewarding economics class I've taken so far!
Start the assignments early, especially the final project! I recommend going to office hours to complete the Stata psets.

Ronak is amazing!
Ronak was very good at facilitating conversation and helping us learn. She was extremely kind and patient with our learning and I think everyone in this section would say the same thing: she was a great teacher!
Ronak was really good at breaking down econometrics concepts and making sure that we were able to understand them. She also facilitated a lot of discussion and allowed us to learn from one another which was really helpful.
Ronak was the best instructor I've had at Harvard so far!! She is incredibly passionate about the topic and her students' learning. She is very enthusiastic and extremely encouraging of participation– she made section fun while still being incredibly instructive.
